Love, Marriage ... and Money

It's wedding season, and love is in the air! Whether you're planning a wedding, or are currently married or in a live-in relationship, you no doubt recognize that shared expenses are an integral part of living together.

In today's driven condo market, it's more important than ever to work with a qualified real estate professional who will first help you determine the pricing parameters you would be qualified to work within, and then help find you the perfect new home.

Terminology Tip: Mean vs. Median

A Tidy Resolution

It's now been half a year since you made your 2018 New Year's resolutions, and it's half a year until you make your new 2019 New Year's resolutions, so why not just do the one thing that's on almost everyone's list right now? That thing is to tidy and declutter your home!

Have a look at this starter list and tackle the easiest one for you first.

Household Hack: Make Mosquitoes Buzz Off!

A Helping Hand

You've no doubt read about the propensity of young homebuyers relying on their parents for help with their down payments. In fact, more than one-third of Millennials looking to purchase their first home are reportedly relying on financial help from a relative. Is it a good idea to contribute to your own child's down payment, either as a gift or as a loan?

Responsible Relocating

Whether you're moving across the country or just across town, you can, with a little bit of pre-planning, make your move an easier, more environmentally-friendly one!

Monthly Musing
